BRAND STORY

The brand was started with the journey to the northern United States in 2005. Amish's simple lifestyle greatly influenced Linabell's founder, Mr. William. Their detachment from worldly matters renewed Mr. William's dedication to furniture design. He recognized that furniture design should reflect a serene lifestyle. Consequently, he integrates this simple and harmonious life philosophy into his work.

After coming back to China, he began a voyage of discovering furniture design amid the agitation and unease of contemporary life. Reflecting on his initial ambition, Mother Nature consistently bestows inner peace upon him, guiding his path ahead. He perceives furniture design as not solely focused on aesthetics and opulence but also as a mindset towards existence. Infused with this deep connection and hope, he imparts a minimalist essence to his modern designs, founding a furniture label that mirrors his comfortable way of living.

In 2022, AB2 Gallery was born with the concept of "ultimate pure, natural, and original living." It is not just a home brand, but also the founder's interpretation of a simple life, which helps build a wonderful and ideal life for all of us.

LEATHER

MATERIAL

Italian Oil Wax Leather

Italian oil wax leather is made from the top layer of cowhide that has been polished, oiled, and waxed to create a special leather texture effect. It is a fashionable leather crafting technique with an antique art effect. It has strong water and oil absorption properties; the parts that absorb water and oil will darken the leather color (changing leather), which deepens and gains more charm over time, with increased glossiness.

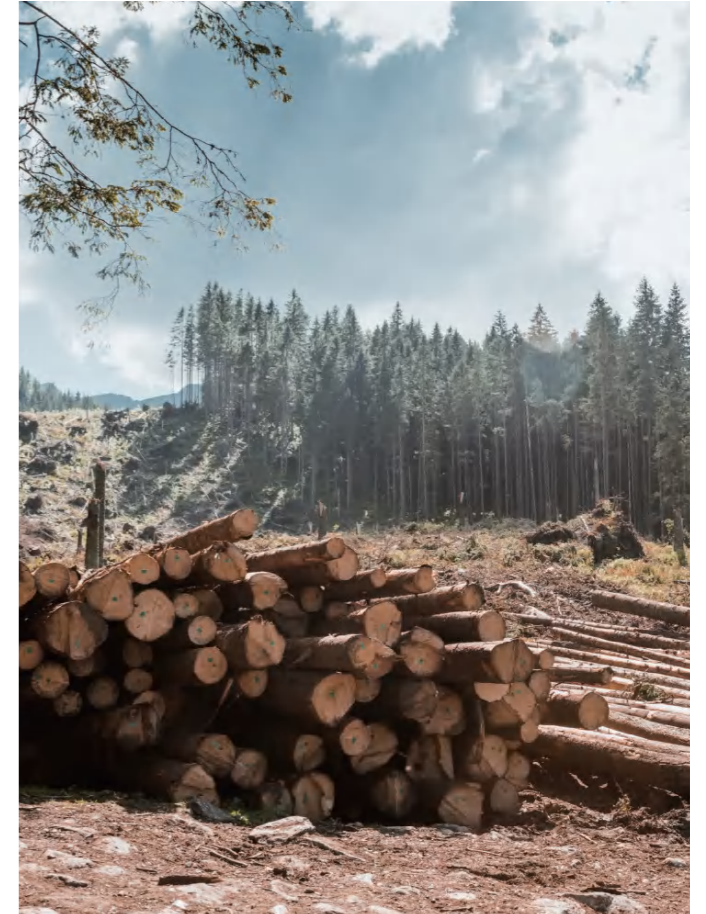

Europe-imported Top Layer Cowhide

In the lush and fertile European pastures, excellent yellow cattle are selected for breeding. Thanks to the mild and humid temperate maritime climate throughout the year, the yellow cattle bred here are tall, robust, energetic, with larger and good texture hides, delicate in quality. It stands out in leather material selection with tougher leather, original texture, and remarkable craftsmanship.

WOOD

MATERIAL

American Red Oak

Due to the harsh climate conditions of its habitat, often reaching temperatures well below minus twenty degrees Celsius, the American Red Oak grows at a very slow pace of only 2 millimeters per year. As a result, high-quality Red Oak possesses a denser grain, a more stable structure, is less prone to shrinkage and cracking, and exhibits excellent resistance to bending and stiffness.

American Wattle Wood

American Wattle Wood is native to North America. It features a fine texture, high density, elegant coloration, and good weather resistance. With a uniform structure, strong strength, good impact resistance, and high corrosion resistance, its unique natural grain becomes more precious and enduring with time, always retaining its freshness.

American White Waxwood

With a creamy white or light pink color and a straight and attractive grain pattern, American White Waxwood naturally possesses strong resistance to decay, ensuring a long service life. Due to its good mechanical strength, the wood processes well, paints nicely, and polishes effectively, making it a preferred material for many high-end furniture pieces.

Romanian Beech Wood

Representing a top-quality European species, Romanian Beech Wood is sturdy, impact-resistant, with stable wood properties and good nail-holding capabilities. It boasts a clear, fine grain, uniform wood texture, soft and smooth color tones, and a scent-free nature, making it a preferred choice for high-end furniture production.

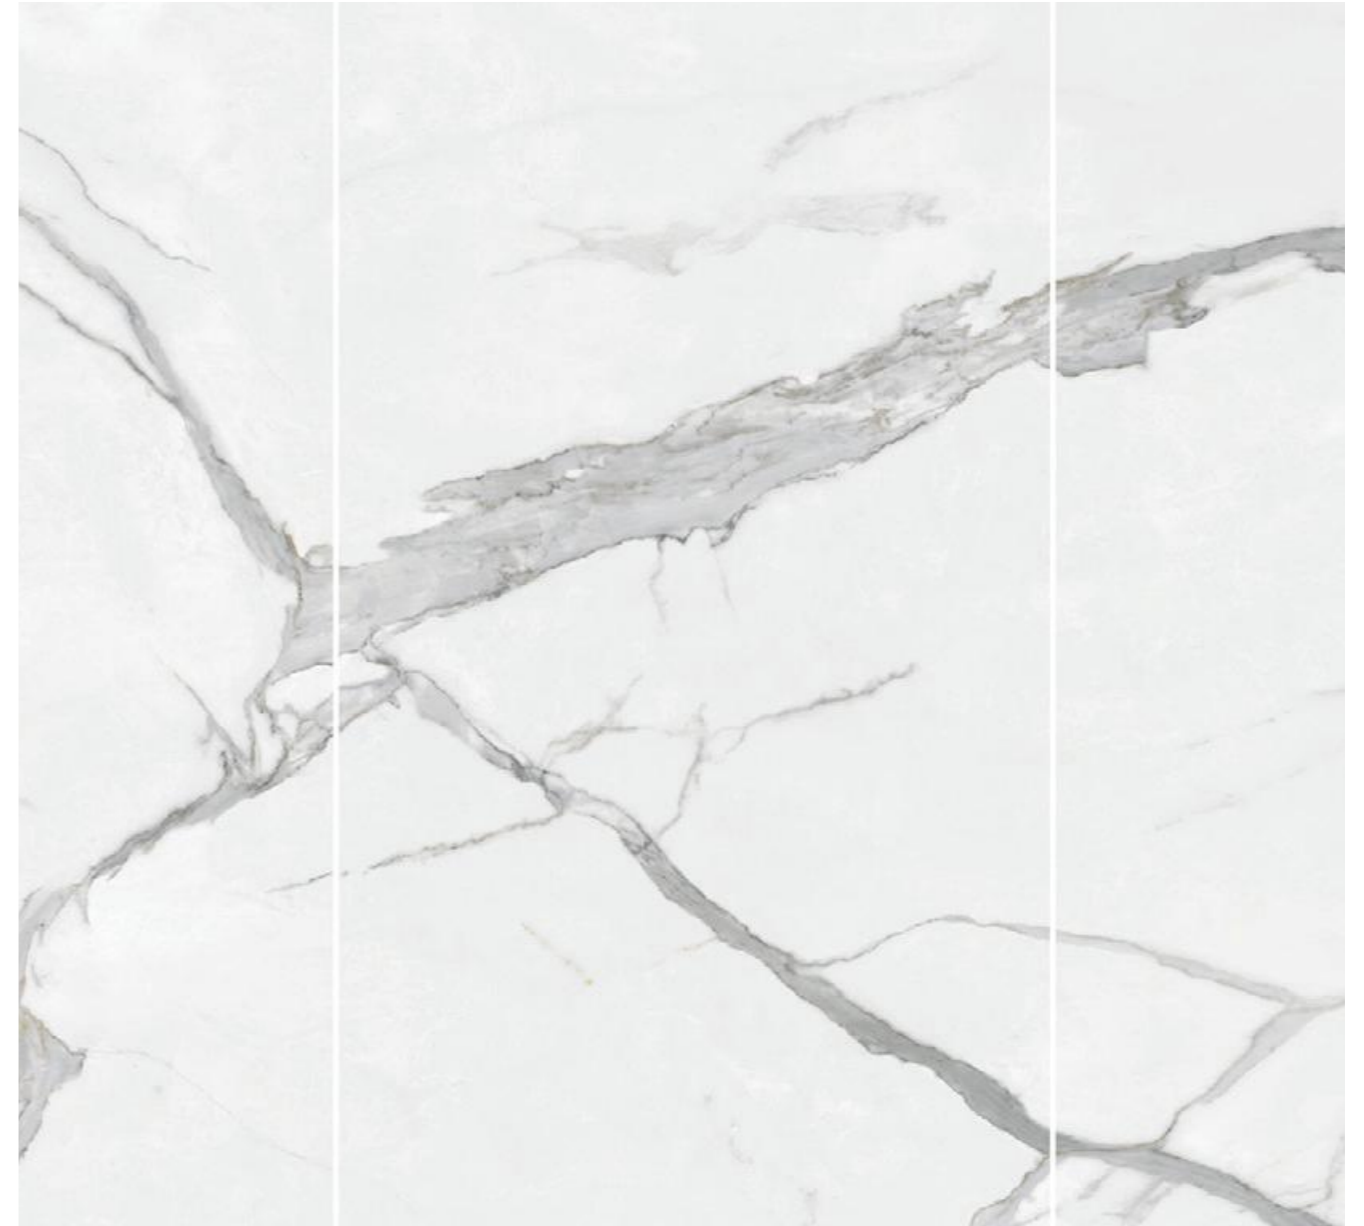

STONE

Italian Yellow Cave Marble

Yellow-toned limestone with a gentle and elegant feel, the moderate color makes people feel warm and forget the coldness commonly associated with marble. Light brown and dark brown blend harmoniously, with clear yet subtle variations in intensity, showcasing a noble and luxurious quality without being too ostentatious.

Fish Belly White Marble

Fish Belly White Marble is highly favored by designers and residents alike for its quality, patterns, and smoothness. Its color resembles the belly of a fish, pure white and elegantly gray. The surface has a warm jade-like texture, fine and gentle in quality. With its clean white base and distinct gray veins, Fish Belly White Marble symbolizes nobility and elegance.
