Even in a free market economy, not everything is permitted that could give a company an advantage. JEAN MÜLLER complies with antitrust law and other laws regulating competition and follows clean and recognized business practices. Any form of unfair competition is rejected. Agreements and arrangements on prices, divisions (e.g. product or market) are illegal and can lead to reputational damage for JEAN MÜLLER.

JEAN MÜLLER is committed to respecting human rights. All people are entitled to them, regardless of their origin, gender, religion or age. We pay attention to equal opportunities and equal treatment during the hiring process and in the daily working environment and reject unacceptable treatment of people through e.g. discrimination or sexual harassment.

JEAN MÜLLER is committed to employing only workers with a minimum age of 15 years. Hazardous work may only be performed when the employee is at least 18 years old.

8 Working conditions

Forced labor in any form is prohibited. JEAN MÜLLER is committed to fair working conditions. This includes, among other things, compliance with the maximum permissible working hours, regular paid vacation and the payment of fair wages that at least correspond to the statutory or collectively agreed minimum wage and ensure the minimum subsistence level.

JEAN MÜLLER is also committed to respecting the right of employees to freedom of association and organization, as well as the right to collective bargaining.

We rely on open and honest dialogue and support freedom of expression.

9 Data protection and data security

JEAN MÜLLER is committed to the proper handling of data. When handling personal data, we take into account the rules of data protection in accordance with the Federal Data Protection Act and the General Data Protection Regulation. With suitable organizational and technical measures, we want to prevent the manipulation, loss or unauthorized access to company data by third parties.

JEAN MÜLLER rejects corruption and bribery in any form. We accept gifts and invitations only of low value and within the scope of our policy.

11 Conflicts of interest

JEAN MÜLLER requires its employees to act in the best interests of the company. Conflicts of interest can impair success, lead to economic damage and harm the company's reputation. Therefore, any personal interests that conflict with the company's interests must be disclosed.
